Nomination Criteria for Awards:

The awards listed on this page are selected by the Missing Endangered Persons Information Clearinghouse Advisory Board.

General Awards:	Specific Criteria:
Citizen of the Year Award	Activity resulted in the prevention of an abduction, or the recovery of a child or endangered person from a situation of imminent danger. *Sworn law enforcement may not qualify for this award UNLESS the activity is grossly outside their normal job activities and occurred while off-duty. For example, sworn jail personnel that prevented a child abduction at a bus stop may qualify.
School Bus Operator of the Year Award	Activity resulted in the prevention of a child or student abduction or the recovery of a child or student from a situation of imminent danger while on duty as a school bus operator/driver. *Must be employed as a school bus driver. Any other type of bus driver would be assessed for Citizen of the Year award.
Young Hero Award	While a minor , activity that resulted in the prevention, escape or situation of imminent danger typically related to a child abduction or recovery of a child (could be the prevention/escape of their own abduction).
Local/State/Federal Law Enforcement Officer of the Year Award	Activity resulted in the safe recovery or location of a missing endangered person OR resolution of a case involving serial child or endangered person homicide or child or endangered persons sexual exploitation OR made a significant contribution to missing children's or missing endangered person's issues through the development and/or implementation of an educational, awareness, or safety program. *Must be sworn law enforcement. Some agencies require law enforcement response to consist of two members. If more than one officer responded to the same case, there may be multiple winners.
Combatting Human Trafficking Award	Made outstanding contributions to the issue of human trafficking while positively affecting missing and endangered children, their families, and the safety of children; OR demonstrate a profound contribution that established improvements in preventing child human trafficking victimization and/or safely recovering those who go missing and were victims of human trafficking. Due to information needed for this award, please complete the Combatting Human Trafficking Award nomination form.
Jimmy Ryce Trailing Team of the Year Award	Activity resulted in the safe recovery of a missing minor child. *Award may be given to both sworn/non-sworn trailing teams. Other scent trailing types (decedent, electronic scent, etc.) and children recovered deceased are assessed under a different award. Due to information needed for this award, please complete the Jimmy Ryce Trailing Team of the Year nomination form.
Task Force/Team of the Year Award	Activity has resulted in the safe recovery or location of a missing endangered person OR solved a case involving serial child or endangered person homicide or child/endangered person sexual exploitation OR made a significant contribution to missing children's or missing endangered person's issues through the development and/or implementation of an educational, awareness, or safety program. *At least one member of the nominated team MUST be sworn. Include all sworn/non-sworn members who substantially participated on the team.
Maple's Everyday Hero Award	Miscellaneous category for those whose activities are related to child abduction, missing persons, sexual offender and predator apprehension, or locating deceased remains. *Award may be given to sworn law enforcement, non-sworn criminal justice personnel, citizens, advocates, diving teams, cold case investigators, etc., and may also be given to individuals or teams.

Nomination Criteria for Awards:

Awards on this page are selected by FDLE's Commissioner, and do not have a specific nomination form.

Special Awards:	Specific Criteria:
Commissioner's Award	Activity must be an exemplary model facilitating the safe return of missing children or proactively working toward the prevention of abduction thus enhancing the safety of Florida's children. *Award may be given to sworn law enforcement, non-sworn criminal justice personnel, citizens, advocates, diving teams, cold case investigators, etc., and may also be given to individuals or teams that involve activity involving children specifically.
John and Revé Walsh Award	Work done must positively affect Florida's missing children and their families and/or positively impact the safety of Florida's children. Their work over the years must indicate a profound contribution that institutionalized improvements thus preventing children from abduction and/or safely and successfully recover those who go missing. *Award may be given to sworn law enforcement, non-sworn criminal justice personnel, citizens, advocates, diving teams, cold case investigators, etc., and may also be given to individuals or teams that involve activity involving children specifically.
Evelyn Williams Memorial Award	Work is beneficial to the public and has demonstrated outstanding contributions to the incidents of missing endangered persons. The effort of this individual is usually unrecognized as they continue working quietly and consistently behind the scenes for the safety of Florida's children and endangered populations. *Award may be given to sworn law enforcement, non-sworn criminal justice personnel, citizens, advocates, diving teams, cold case investigators, etc., and may also be given to individuals or teams that involve missing endangered persons.
